EDINBURGH

Edinburgh is one of the fastest growing cities in the UK and enjoys the strongest city economy outside London. Its population is one of the best educated and most highly skilled workforces, and it has one of the highest student populations of any UK city at more than 80,000. More than 70% of the city's population of 500,000 is of working age and as such, Edinburgh provides an unparalleled pool of resource from which to recruit staff. As Scotland's capital, it is the seat of the Scottish Parliament at Holyrood and is home of the Scottish legal system.

More than 70% of the city's population of 500,000 is of working age.

VIBRANT
HISTORIC

The city also offers an unrivalled standard of living and was named second for quality of life in a global Deutsche Bank survey. Known as the world's Festival City, residents enjoy an array of music, creative and performing arts events throughout the year. There are myriad restaurants and food and drink festivals to choose from, and plenty of sporting and outdoor activities to keep the city's dynamic population actively engaged. Simply put, there is nowhere better to live, work and do business in the UK.

COMMUNICATIONS

Edinburgh has excellent road communications with direct access to the national motorway network. The city is served by the M8 from the west (Glasgow and Livingston), the M90/A9 from the north (Aberdeen and Inverness) and the A1 and A7 from the south/south east (the Borders, East Lothian and Newcastle).

1 Waterfront Avenue is situated next to West Granton bus terminus and can be easily accessed via public transport. The existing tram currently runs from Edinburgh Airport to York Place. The next phase extending the tram line to connect Leith and Newhaven is underway. Future plans to extend the line from Newhaven, through Granton Waterfront to Haymarket are planned and approved with the extension in place for 2030.

Edinburgh Airport is located 8 miles west of the city centre and is easily accessed via the motorway network or directly from the city centre by bus or tram. The airport is Scotland's busiest airport and it is the sixth largest international airport in the UK.

Edinburgh also benefits from exceptional railway services and facilities following recent multi-million-pound refurbishments, line extensions and upgrades. The stations provide direct train services to and from London on the east coast rail network and are easily reached from other main English towns and cities, as well as providing Scottish services to all major centres.

The property provides flexible, open plan office accommodation arranged around an impressive full height atrium.

The building set a new standard for office accommodation and has received several design awards including the Scottish Design Award for Commercial Interior and the British Council for Offices National and Regional Awards for Commercial Workplace.

Each elevation of the building is fully glazed, with the 2nd and 3rd floors providing spectacular views across the Firth of Forth. A silver anodised “Brise-soleil” surrounds the building, delivering a striking external appearance, and combined with high performance glazing helps achieve an ideal balance between natural light penetration and solar protection.
